

First recorded by the ancient Greeks, many flowers and herbs have been used in wedding ceremonies for centuries . Bridal bouquets more commonly contained herbs such as

Rosemary

and

Marjoram

in ancient times, symbolically warding of spirits and bad luck. Medieval knights would wear the colours of his Lady . Swedish grooms traditionally carried to ward off trolls. The groom's brother in Indian tradition often showered the couple with petals to ward off bad luck.

Thyme

In the 20th century, the use of floral arrangements evolved from the purely symbolic to also serve an aesthetic role , with careful design and artistic arrangement according to style and fashion. All Seasons Florists dedicate themselves to incorporating the symbolic elements of your tradition with the
